

VALUE-BASED CARE at Revere Health

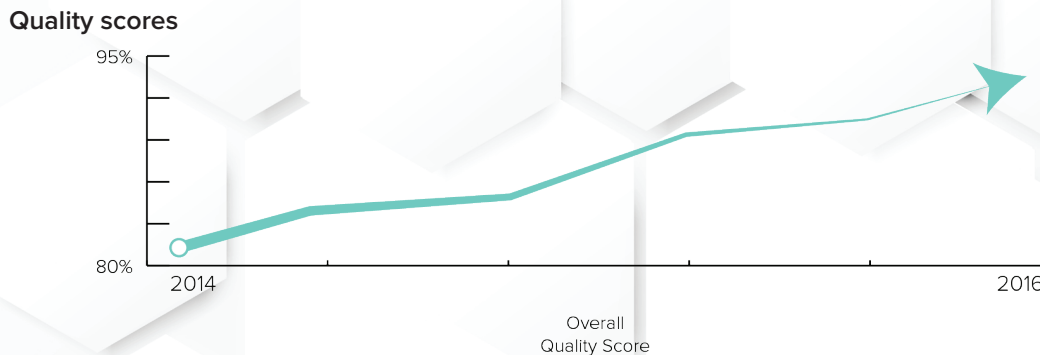

The state of healthcare in the U.S. is not sustainable for the future, and we believe that healthcare providers—along with many others involved in delivering healthcare—have a responsibility to help change that trajectory. Value-based care is the future of medicine and Revere Health has been a pioneer of this movement in Utah.

As the state's first Accountable Care Organization (ACO) to be accredited by Medicare in 2012, and the first ACO to be accepted into the Next Generation ACO Program in Utah, Revere Health is dedicated to lowering the cost of care while improving quality. We've shown continuing success in this initiative as a participant in the Medicare Shared Savings Program (MSSP).
